

APRIL 22, 2010 @ 6:30pm
the Santa Fe Complex

624 Agua Fria Street, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87501

Earth Day in Santa Fe: Dwelling within our Means

Four 8-minute presentations from local professionals who are working to improve Santa Fe's built environment and our natural surroundings

Al Moore: Albert Moore & Associates, President AIA Santa Fe - practical application of universal principles to create communities that inspire and enliven the human spirit, biomimickry in community planning.

Roy Wroth: Urbanist - neighborhood planning in Santa Fe through public participation and strategic planning in support of community revitalization in historic downtowns and neighborhoods.

Mariel Nanasi: Senior Policy Advisor, New Energy Economy: solving global warming and transforming our economy to one powered by clean energy and grounded in justice.

Dr. Tom Pederson: GIS Specialist, AOS Architects: historic & cultural resources as part of sustaining local communities.

food and beverages will be served for more information:

<http://www.facebook.com/group.php?gid=21746230799>

architecture for humanity

